THE COURTS OF NORTHUMBERLAND

Oystermen Forming Leagues
All Over the Northern Neck.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
HEATHSVILLE, VA., Dec. 5.—The last Circuit Court that will be held here was adjourned by Judge T. R. B. Wright last Friday night, after a three-day session. Judge Wright arrived here Tuesday evening and opened court early next morning. No cases of much importance were tried. A fairly large crowd was in attendance all three days. Although the people of this section were in the midst of the new of the old customs upset. Although the crowds that attended the Circuit Court were never as large as those at the monthly courts, still on the day that the court was held much business was attended to. People from all over the county met and transacted whatever business was necessary and agents for machinery would sell more during one of these days than they would all the rest of the month put together. Judge Wright has decided to hold court for two days at a time next year. He expects to arrive here Monday and attend to the preliminary business of the court and to go into the real cases of the next day. The Oyster "Fongers" Union, which is being organized all over Tidewater Virginia, is establishing subsidiaries all over the Northern Neck. The following are the names of the places where subsidiaries were organized during the past week by Mr. W. P. Moody, president of the O. T. U. of Virginia: Weems, Monday night; McKenney's Store, Tuesday night; Millenbeck, Wednesday night; Moseley, Thursday night, and Deep Creek, Friday night. All of these organizations have a large membership already and many more members have expressed a desire to join in the near future.

The oystermen of this section report oysters as being very scarce, but they are bringing fancy prices, both down the bay and in Baltimore. Some of the oysters shipped to Baltimore from Reedville are said to have sold for fifty cents per bushel. This is the largest price brought by any oysters shipped from this section for a number of years.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Peed, who have been visiting at the home of Mr. W. P. Anderson, have returned to their home in Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosenberry, of Pennsylvania, who have been staying at the Shirley Hotel, have returned to their home in Harrisburg.

Mr. VIII. Allen and his sister, Miss Ellice, who have been visiting at the home of their brother, Mr. David Allen, have returned to their home in New York.

Mr. J. M. Booth, who has been ill for several weeks, has improved very much during the past week.

Mrs. I. M. Bussell, of Harvey's Neck, is visiting friends and relatives in Baltimore.

Lawrence Hammonk, sergeant aboard the battleship Massachusetts, is visiting at the home of his father, Mr. C. C. Hammonk.

COMPARE IT TO PANAMA

French Press Have Much to Say on Revelations About the Ship-Building Trust.

MONTE CARLO PROSPERING

Number of Visitors, Particularly of Americans, Greater Than Ever Before.

PARIS, Dec. 5.—The French press is making use of the disclosures brought out in New York regarding the management of the Steel Trust and the Shipbuilding Company to warn their readers against investing in American securities of any kind.

"While American railroad bonds have always been considered an excellent investment," writes this large Paris paper, "French investors should use considerable discretion in buying these securities now, as the roads are practically consolidated now, and should a railroad trust be formed recent events have shown that the holders of bonds and stocks may expect."

"We here in France have had our Panama scandal, but it stood alone, and the swindlers were denounced by every respectable Frenchman."

"In the United States, however, men ranking among the foremost financiers of that country are continually concocting swindles beside which the Panama scandal was nothing, and still keep their social and financial prestige."

Course of Riviera.

Monaco has stopped paying subsidies to the French press, for during the last month almost every paper in the city, even those formerly friendly to the French, have been clamoring against what they call the curse of the Riviera.

There are all sorts of rumors that the great international gambling house in a near future will be forced to close its doors by a concerted action of France and Italy.

At Monte Carlo, however, there are no signs of the threatening danger.

The number of visitors, and especially Americans, was larger during the month of November than ever before, and at several of the roulette tables the players spoke only English, even the couples occasionally changing their familiar cry, "Faites vos jeux," to "Make your bets, please."

The Casino has been made very much larger, and, to accommodate the greater influx of gamblers, now starts at 10 in the morning and lasts until midnight, instead of from noon until 11, as formerly.

A baccarat club has also been established, and will very shortly be opened by the Casino management opposite the post-office, where the big plumbers will be able to vary his usual programme of trente-et-quarant and roulette.

Up to now the rooms are more than $200,000 ahead of last year's profits, and the money is rolling in all the time.

Every day a line of twenty or more cleaned-out gamblers make their way in solemn procession to the offices of the Casino administration to beg enough cash to pay their hotel bills and take them home.

All kinds and conditions of men are to be seen in this group, the help at the Casino ranges from $25 to $2,000.

Swindlers often try to take advantage of this privilege, but it is seldom that they succeed.

A few days ago, however, a smartly dressed man, giving a well-known name and address at a leading hotel, claimed $500 and his fare to Belgium.

He was given $250 and a first-class ticket home.

Scarcely had he left Monaco than it was found that the administration had been caught napping.

He was a notorious thief, who had arrived penniless at Monaco a few days before, and had stayed at a common lodging house on the Comandine.

New Saint.

France will soon have another saint, who, in spite of the attempts of the Government to undermine all faith in the Catholic Church, will be very popular all over the country.

Cardinal Richier, who recently returned from a two months' trip to Rome, announces that Pope Pius X. is very anxious to have Jeanne d'Arc canonized without delay, hoping that this act will make the Church of Rome more popular in France.

The Cardinal says that the persecution of religious orders by the French Gov-

Walking Test.

Perhaps you think I am placing the figures rather high, but the new "Dorothy Dodd" Shoe will make a difference of fifty per cent in the amount of fatigue from a long day of shopping or work of any kind which involves walking.

It will make almost as great a difference where long hours must be spent standing.

And all because it is an arch-supporting shoe. It puts you on the same valiant ground as the Indian, who, because he does not walk on his heel or toes, but on his whole foot, can easily travel fifty miles a day. You will find you can walk twice as far in a "Dorothy Dodd" as in any other shoe. Isn't this worth something to you?

Sincerely yours,

Dorothy Dodd

ornament is a source of sincere sorrow to the mild-mannered Holy Father, who has always adored everything French.

"I would give all that remains of my life," the Pope said to the Cardinal during an audience at which Monsignor Touchet, Archbishop of Toulouse, was present, "if I could only redeem France from the wiles of atheism."

And at the thought tears he did not try to conceal streamed down the Pope's face.

Enjoyed the Fight.

The famous French General O'Connor, commander-in-chief of the French troops in Oran, has been reprimanded severely by the Minister of War for engaging in a fist fight in Rue de Courcelles the other day.

The General, who is of Irish extraction, resents the reprimand very much, and has even threatened to resign. He claims that he was forced into the fight, though he admits that "being of Irish descent he naturally enjoyed it."

The man who attacked him is Captain Muller, who wears the decoration of the Legion of Honor.

He says that the General, under whom he served, has ruined his military career by sending false reports upon his conduct.

He left the army three years ago, and although he alleges he has been acquitted of the charges made against him, nothing has been done to remedy the disgrace of his retirement.

SHOT HIMSELF.

Young Farmer Lets Gun Fall While Hunting.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
MONTGOMERY, VA., Dec. 5.—As the result of the accidental discharge of a shotgun, Andrew Beverage, a young farmer living a few miles north of here, was seriously injured on Thursday last. He was hunting over rugged territory, and let the gun fall. In his effort to catch it he received the load of shot in his neck and shoulder, after having torn away part of one hand. His physician said that he pronounced the injury fatal.

The demand for turkeys in Highland is unprecedented. Buyers are riding in every section of the county, and the farmers are allowed to choose between 15 cents in merchandise or 11 cents in cash. Under such circumstances, the Thanksgiving bird has caused to "strut."

THE HOLLY AND THE MISTLETOE

Great Demand for Virginia
Evergreens at the North.
The Oldest Grave.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

YORKTOWN, VA., Dec. 5.—Holly, the great Yuletide evergreen, is being bought up in large quantities by florists, speculators and investors, for decorations during the approaching holidays. The species found here is especially valuable, being of exceptionally fine quality. Agents here from New York and Canada, who obtain the holly from the farmers, have it hauled to station and shipped in box-cars to various destinations all over the north. The specimens of mistletoe, which abound here are more perfect than seldom ever found in this part of the country.

When Mr. Wm. F. Vandre, late superintendent of the National Cemetery, applied at the post at Knoxville, Tenn., whence he was ordered by the department at Washington, he was refused the charge of the post by the incumbent, Mr. Rhos. Ridge, who had been ordered here. The department later advised him by wire to assume charge of the first-class post at Mount City, Illinois, whence he proceeded.

These complications leave the post here vacant, pending an appointment to which, Mr. Jno. C. Beer is still acting superintendent, and interim.

Mr. Ridge is understood to have refused this post.

Griffin district still continues without public school service, the Crab Neck neighborhood being especially affected. The patrons of the schools in some instances are sending their children to private schools.

Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Bull, of Spokane, Wash., were visitors here during the week. While on an extended tour of the south, the couple made an especial pilgrimage to Temple Farm and the grave of Minor Gaudet, which, by the way, is the oldest authenticated grave in America, being possibly antedated a year or two by a sepulchre at Plymouth Rock, Mass. The date of the interment runs back to the neighborhood of 1020. It lies right in the midst of the old "Temple" from which the celebrated farm took its name.
